On September 19, 2024, MES Institute of Management, in collaboration with the Eco Club-Dharini, organized a successful clean-up drive aimed at enhancing the cleanliness of the college campus and its surroundings. This initiative brought together student volunteers, faculty, and students, fostering a spirit of community engagement and environmental responsibility. The primary objective of the clean-up drive was to instil a sense of awareness about the importance of maintaining a clean and healthy environment.

By actively participating in the event, volunteers aimed to set an example for their peers and the broader community, demonstrating that collective efforts can lead to significant positive change. The event also sought to educate participants about the adverse effects of littering and pollution on local ecosystems and public health.

Additionally, the drive aimed to promote sustainable practices among students, encouraging them to adopt habits that support environmental conservation. By creating a cleaner and more pleasant campus, the initiative not only enhanced the aesthetic appeal of the surroundings but also fostered a sense of pride and responsibility within the college community.

Ultimately, the clean-up drive served as a reminder that every individual plays a crucial role in preserving the environment for future generations.
